

SONYA RUSSELL

I am a career public servant, specialising in strategy and international policy, Government relations, public messaging, and program management. I have represented Australia overseas on military operations and as an advisor to foreign bureaucracies.

I hold a Bachelor of Security Analysis (Asia-Pacific) and a Master of Military and Defence Studies from the Australian National University. I successfully completed the Chinese proficiency test, HSK 4, while studying at the People's Liberation Army Foreign Language University in China.

I am the New South Wales representative and President of the Australasian Federation of Family History Organisations.

Having started tracing my family history as a teenager as a way of spending time with my grandparents, I am currently completing the Society's Certificate of Genealogical Studies.
